A Stranger's Impressions of the Frankfort

We find the following just and eloquent noce of our beautiful Cemetery in a letter to the stocks. ndianapolis Locomotive, which we understand o be from the pen of an intelligent gentleman now sojourning in our city:

KENTUCKY'S HONORED DEAD.

Dear Locomotive: Overlooking the Capital of Commonwealth of Kentucky-towards the sing sun, as if to catch the first bright beams the cheering God of Day-on a bold bluff, ong whose rugged sides a still more rugged d romantic path winds heavenward to the rateful scene above—is the Frankfort Ceme-ery. On a beautiful Sabbath day, of the Inian Summertime, I first beheld its beauties.—
The day was singularly lovely, with that comtime for debating the question had not arrived, be moved the previous question. Resolution to the beauties of Indian Summer—all above so blue, all below so peaceful. And as I strolled through the neatly laid-out grounds, and gazed upon the proud monuments of Kentucky's bravest sons, I no longer wondered that that gallout State bravest total bravels that the country of the previous question had not arrived, he moved the previous question. Resolution tabled by a vote of 104 to 66.

After some other unimportant proceedings, the House adjourned. allant State brought forth the bravest of the

At our set two humble mounds of earth slightly broke he level grass around. Pray, whose graves are ese?—crowning this ampitheatre, surrounded all of Nature's beauty—with the tall oak a ne head-from which the forest birds are singg their blithest notes? The rustling canear tells us they must be the resting place of ome worshipper of Nature and wanderer of he Forest; and so they are. For here, in this numble spot, decorated only by the God of Na re, lies the great pioneer hunter, and truly onest man, Daniel Boone, side by side with he partner of his bosom,—he peaceful sleeps! while in the vale beneath, and on the hills round, and far over the hills of his Garden Land, are to be seen the fruits of his untiring energy and perseverance. The old Kentucky Hunter—as long as his whole souled descend ants make this earth their "stamping ground," ill his memory be revered. Prominently conspicuous in beauty is the tate Military Monument. Its design is beautiful-a single shaft of white marble rising some xty feet, its summit crowned with the em lems of the proud panoply of war, and sur-nounted by an angel, crowning with the vicor's wreath the memory of the braves whose ames are inscribed on its sides.

On its base are inscribed these words, which hould be written in golden characters: "Kentucky has erected this column in gratiide equally to her officers and soldiers." imes of her soldiers, who died for their ountry, are too numerous to be inscribed on

But its design I will not describe. It is the contier post, in every important battle since the ettlement of the country, the blood of old centuck's sons has run like water. Notice well he list, and then acknowledge how just and well deserved is the inscription on the base of the monument. Boonesborough, first in order, and prominent in defense of the white settlers, neads the column. Then in rapid succession,— like the soul-stirring thunders of a park of arlike the soul-stirring timinders of a partial likelihood and such mementoes as these: Battle McBride v McBride v McBride v Were argued. Surrounding the spire, as guard of honor, are the graves of the heroes f Buena Vista—as if forming a cordon about the ashes of their loved officers. East, at the edge of the mound, is the grave of Col. R. M. Johnson; West, at the same distance, that of Maor Barbour,—each crowned with an appropri-te monument. With such a catalogue it is no wonder the State feels proud of her sons.

In the neat and picturesque grounds many beautiful and appropriate designs abound.—

The ever green trees and winding walks add much to its beauty. While the busy capital, lying at the foot of the hill, the placid Kenther winding its sermatic government. tucky winding its serpentine course until lost to view in the distance, and the Arsenal, guard-ing like a grim giant the entrance of the grounds,—all tend to enhance the loveliness of

The deliberations of the Legislature at this session may be expected to be chiefly upon mat- No. 68, Third st.. opposite Waker's Exchange, ters of more than usual interest. The interval of two years elapsed since the last session would in any case suggest many subjects for legislation; but the two years which will have passed in this case are peculiar in this respect. In them the Revised Statutes have for the first time gone into operation superseding the previous statute law of the state. Although prepared with great care, they are doubtless, like other human productions, imperfect; and t may be expected that many modifications of their provisions will be suggested, and some adopted. The Code of Practice is also yet quite new, as well as incomplete. It is presumed that the part yet lacking will be supplied; and it may be anticipated that some provisions of the part already in operation will be the sub ect of discussion and of propositions for change. The question of a free banking law; of the liability of railroad companies for the destruction of life; of a home-stead exemption; of a modification of the law regulating interest; of a change in the mode of punishing infractions of the license laws, and perhaps of a law prohibiting he manufacture or sale of spirituous liquors altogether-these and many other subjects of scarcely inferior importance may be expected to come up for consideration. The interest of the session will also be encreased by the election f a Senator in Congress, to serve six years from the third of March, 1855. The Commonwealth will give accurate daily reports of the proceedings of both houses.

As it is supposed that the important subjects laiming the attention of the General Assembly

TO COMMISSIONERS OF TAX, &c. Your attention is respectfully requested to the Laws concerning the Assessment of Property for Taxation, copies of which have been sent to the Clerks of the several County Courts for dis-

In fixing the value of property, you should endeavor to ascertain its full and fair value—not what it would sell for at a forced cash sale, nor upon long credits, but rather a medium between the two. Much depends on the manner in which your duties are performed. If the laws are complied with according to their true intent and meaning, justice will be done both to the government. ernment and to these who contribute the means for its support.

Should there be any great decrease in the value of any item of taxable preperty, I hope each Commissioner will note the fact at the end of his book, stating the cause of such decrease. I find a considerable decrease in the value of prop erty in several counties for the year 1853, but I not see any statement made by the Assessors of Tax stating the cause of it. I do hope the Assessors will be particular and report all facts connected with this part of their duty. I find the value of land per acre has decreased in the following counties, viz: BREATHITT, CALDWELL, HENRY,

PERRY, ROCKCASTLE,

It does appear to me, that instead of this state of case, there should be an increase in value in each of said counties. The attention of the Assessor of Tax is particularly called to this mat-

The County Court Clerks will please deliver to each Commissioner and Assistant Commissioner of Tax one copy of the circular referred to, as soon as received. This request, I hope, will be attended to promptly.

The attention of the Boards of Supervisors is particularly called to that part of the law in reference to their duty, as much will depend upon the manner in which that duty is perform-In many counties I find that the Boards of in relation to their duty; but I am afraid it has not been so with all. The attention of the Board is called to this matter, and it is hoped they will be particular and have this duty promptly attended to in all the counties.

I also append to the Circular the law and instructions relative to the Registration of Births, Deaths, and Marriages. This is considered a matter of great importance, and it is hoped that all concerned will attend strictly to the duty re-

I find great neglect of duty in relation to fur-nishing the names, post offices, &c., of the deaf and dumb and blind within the State. Hereafter, I hope, the Assessors will be more particular, and give us a full list of this unfortunate class of citizens. It is a matter of great importance to the institutions who have charge such persons, and at their particular request I

TO PHYSICIANS, SURGEONS, AND MID-

WIVES.

It is generally known that at the last session of the Legislature of Kentucky, a law was passed, requiring a Registration of all the Births, Marriages, and Deaths which should occur thereafter, but it does not appear that all physicians, surgeons, and acidwives understand what that law requires at their hands.

To extend more widely a knowledge of the law, copies are sent to the County Court Clerks for distribution—as also copies of the certificates which they are expected to fill and return to the

These certificates, as well as one filted up, you will find deposited in the clerk's office, where you can get as many as you may need. You will find it much more convenient to fill these will be a second will be also will be a second wi occurred, than at any subsequent time, because all the facts will be fresh in your mind, and if any fact is unknown, then will be the best time to inquire for it. It is of much consequence that these certificates be properly filled at the time, and be handed to the clerk before the tenth of January each year, because on that day the assessor of tax receive their books, and these certificates are necessary to the proper collection of the facts pertaining to Registration. To make this measure popular, public opinion must No. 2589. Lewis Wayland, 10,000 acres; Pendleton be enlightened upon the subject, and the countenance of intelligent men given to it. No class of men can do more in this matter than the med lieved, will feel as much interest in it. The facts collected through this means will do much to induce people to preserve their own health, as well as much to aid physicians in curing diseases. For it cannot be doubted that the possession of records, thus collected, will be worth more to the man who makes them than will compensate him for the trouble, independent of the benefit conferred on the public.

One of the principal designs of the law is to ascertain the causes of death in different regions, with as much precision as possible. The certiwith as much precision as possible. The certificate of the physician who attended the case is essential to this accuracy.

In countries where registry laws have been long in use, they have become very popular, and the registry of Births, Marriages, and Deaths has come to be considered as important as the registry of deeds. A medical writer of Eng. land said recently: "For years our medical thousands have daily and hourly written out the causes of death, bringing the whole knowledge of the profession to bear on this single point as unpaid services. In the aggregate, the labor has been enormous, but it has been given, freely rendered, by the profession to the government,

Can it be that this labor, which is freely rendered to the government of Great Britain by the medical profession, will be withheld by the physicians of Kentucky? It cannot be.

I am confident that you will cheerfully aid in promoting this measure, and thereby advance the cause of science and public good.

TO CLERGYMEN AND OTHERS AUTHOR-IZED TO SOLEMNIZE MARRIAGES.

GENTLEMEN: At the last session of the Legislature of Kentucky, a law was passed, requiring a Registration of all Births, Marriages, and Deaths which should occur thereafter.

You are aware that for many years the law required dergymen to return the licenses, by thority of which they had solemnized marriages, to the clerk's office, with a certificate thereon that such marriage had been duly solemnized. Experience proved that very many clergymen failed to make a return of all the marriages solemnized by them. It is judged very important that the fact of marriage should be returned in every instance. It is thought equally important that the facts relating to the parties married, which shall suffice to identify them in after years, should also be recorded. This is important to show the descent of individuals from their own immediate ancestors, and the groom and bride, in every case in which you solemnize a marriage.

To enable you to do this with very little trouble, you will find blank certificates at the office of your County Court. These certificates after being filled, are to be returned to the clerk's office before the 10th of January each year. They are not to contain any marriage which may have taken place after the 31st of December then past.

It is important that these certificates shoul lodged with the clerk before the tenth da of January, because on that day the assesors re ceive their books for assessing taxable property and those certificates are necessary to enabl them to make a proper return of the marriage celebrated in the county during the previous

The objects of this law are very important The objects of this law are very important, and the commonwealth looks to men of intelligence and influence to aid in collecting the facts sought by it. Your duties under it will be trifling, but it is important that those duties should be promptly and faithfully discharged.

I am confident that you will receive these suggestions with kindness, and be ever ready to do your part in carrying the Registration Law into

The only sure remedy ever known for Chills and Fever, and warranted to cure, in all cases, if taken according to directions.

It cures, when taken according to directions, in TWENTY-MINUTES, leaving no Fever after the Chill; very seldom requiring more than ONE DOSE to make a PERMANENT CURE. A great number of cases, from two to five years standing, have been CURED with the FIRST DOSE, and the Chill has never, as yet returned. The beauty of this medicine is, that it stops the Chill in TWENTY MINUTES, or less, and the patient will be entirely clear from Fever after the Chill, which is not the case when any other medicine is used.
